Feature: RealDrums is an easy-to-use and effective software drum machine for live musicians. It is the essential tool for creating drum parts for both acoustic and electronic drums. It allows the creation of your own drum patterns, even when no drum sounds are available on the system. It supports multi-track recording and MIDI file export, and is loaded by clicking on MIDI or audio files in existing MIDI sequencers (Sequencer Express, RealBass, Sonic Academy, etc.). It is a great help to pre-record your parts on the drums, before using it in the real situation. Easy to Learn and Easy to Record RealDrums supports three different interface designs: "Single Desktop", "Multi-Monitor" and "Room mode". Single Desktop: The default interface option. Multiple drum tracks can be opened, sequenced, measured, exported to MIDI files, and exported as MP3 or WAV files. Multi-Monitor: The drum track is divided on 3 monitors, each with a specific view on the current status of the drums. The "Melody" and "Drum Layout" views are designed to show the drums as visible on a picture, helping to visualize and work with the drums in a large display. The "Single Stand", "Yamaha" and "Instrument View" views can be set as the default views for each drum track, saving time when switching to and from the drum track. Room mode: One desktop for the entire system. Multiple monitor views, sequenced drum tracks and existing MIDI files are available on all monitors. MIDI messages and audio can be recorded to audio tracks. RealDrums Simultaneous Play and Recording: The "Simultaneous Play and Recording" function provides full control of recording modes while playing. These modes include drum, snare, tom, kit, drummap and drum note mapping. All of the four modes can be enabled or disabled individually.
