RoloFlex is the personal contact manager for home/office use. It is not a product for beginners; it is designed for people who work for a large organization with many employees, and who need to keep on top of their main work details and clients. RoloFlex helps you store and access all the details of your contacts, phone numbers, addresses, email addresses, company, department, and office. Once you've created a list of your important people and organizations, RoloFlex tracks the business, personal, or individual notes for each person, in addition to the relationship status to let you know who you're calling next. RoloFlex is a client/server program, not a client-only version. You can run RoloFlex and have your contacts data sync'd to your other database programs, like Outlook, Outlook Express, Outlook for the Mac, MacWrite, Excel, InfoPath, etc. You can create an entire database of personal contacts from a list of your phone numbers and addresses, or just add them one by one. Data is stored on the hard drive and backed up automatically. You can create groups of contacts, and move them all at once. You can also save all of your contacts into a group or folder on your hard drive. With each contact's group and folder, the program's program name always appears below it. RoloFlex features include: * Automatic Dialing Program, to easily dial to anyone you need * Callback Dates, for organizing calls to people with whom you need to stay in touch * Auto-Reference, which keeps track of your calls to people and groups of people * AutoDocument, to quickly store and organize information in a note * Built-in Calendar, for events or calls with people * Contact List, which you can rearrange any way you like * Do Not Disturb, which allows you to turn off the constant ringing of your phone * Email, which you can program to send an automatic email at a certain time * FaxModem, to send faxes over the modem * NameDisplay, to keep track of who you called last * Phones, which includes all of your phones and contacts, plus all of their phone numbers * Split/Merge, which allows you to easily split or merge a folder into another folder * Synchronize with Excel, etc. RoloFlex will also connect to your Web pages, or you can
