Knowing what to do after you leave college is a tricky subject, especially if you do not have a summer job and have nowhere else to go. Here are just a few tips that might help you to make the most of your summer. 1. Make Friends: If you don't already have at least one friend at your new school, begin making friends as soon as you can. Many colleges will have freshmen orientation, which is meant to introduce new students to the campus. Meet as many people as possible, even if you only learn their names for the first time the next day. This way, you can move into the community more easily after you've been accepted. 2. Get In Shape: If you do not have a summer job, you probably do not have money to be travelling every weekend to go to the gym. In order to stay active, it is important that you start a fitness regime as soon as possible. You could take up running, participate in any of the local pools, go to the gym, or even get a job in the fitness industry. 3. Get Extra Money: More than likely, you are going to be spending most of your summers after school on a river or lake or on an exotic vacation, so there is definitely money to be made! Check out online jobs and see how you can get an income immediately after you've graduated. If you do not want to take online jobs right away, you can always come up with a list of summer projects that you can complete during school break. Using your creative skills, you could freelance for a newspaper or magazine.
