KeyMacro is an advanced replacement of the standard Android keystrokes. It automatically records and executes Android applications' and shortcuts' keystrokes for a selected application, therefore allowing users to perform various actions on their phones with just a single tap of a button, or without actually touching the device. KeyMacro supports both non-standard and on-screen keystrokes. The application itself supports all versions of Android from 2.3 up to 7.0 and it also supports Google's actions in the background, which means users will be able to perform such actions as rebooting the device or lock/unlock the device with a single keystroke, regardless of the application's mode. KeyMacro also supports additional actions such as Pause/Resume, Skip, Skip To Last, Skip To First, Skip To Last Interval and many more. If users want to perform more complex operations on their phone, they can use the advanced mode. It comes with a set of predefined actions which should cover a wide range of users' needs. The application can also be used as a wake lock wake-up or as a silent alarm. It can be configured to wake the device up or to have the phone go to sleep without actually removing its power supply. Users can also use the application as a silent alarm clock, so that it will notify them via the phone's notification system and they won't have to open the phone's screen. The app allows users to detect system events such as incoming calls, text messages, alarms and so on. It also allows users to set up and customize certain preferences for different events. If users receive a call while the application is running, they will see a notification on the phone's screen. If users want to have a voice-to-voice call they just have to tap on the call and speak through the application's microphone. They can also tap on the app's symbol on the phone's home screen to turn it off.

With KeyMacro you will be able to control your phone with ease, save you time and prevent phone malfunctions. It is designed for Android 2.3 or above. Features: ● No device reboot when using one of the actions ● Saving the applications' current state and automatically re-launching them ● Automatic or manual re-launching of the previous application ● Automatic, manual or direct restarting of the device ●
