* www.freshtutorials.com/tutorials/photoshop # 2. Master the Fundamentals ## Introduction Now that you're familiar with the basic concepts and terms used in this book, it's time to master the tools and techniques that will help you transform your subject. First, you'll find that the most important tool is patience. Picking out a photo and a subject, then having the right lighting, composition, and accessories to make your image come together is the key. You need to learn to master the tools and learn to work as fast as you can without losing your images. Beyond these fundamentals, you should learn about lighting, lighting modifiers, and camera and lens settings for portraits and landscape. Remember, light and dark complement each other, and too much of one or the other makes for an unattractive image. The golden rule for good photo composition is to have your subject and the viewer on the same focal plane. This means that everything that is in focus should be in focus as you make the photo. If a subject is at the edge of the focal plane, for example, a background should blur into the background and vice versa. ## Equipment and Materials The following are the list of materials and equipment you'll need to master the basics of Photoshop.

Beginner guides: The features presented in this article will be useful for users of Photoshop and Photoshop Elements. Most tutorials will assume you know the basics of Photoshop and use of Elements. If you are new to using Photoshop Elements, or even if you use other apps, please read the introductory tutorial above. Adobe Photoshop Elements offers a large number of filter options. All of these filters can be applied with ease to an image in one of several ways: Open the image. Double-click the image in the Images panel. Click the Add filter button to the right of the layer in the Layers panel. Click the Filter button in the Layers panel. The Filter menu includes several nice filters for free, and there are many other filters included in the Adobe Photoshop package. We'll start our exploration of filters with Freeform Layers, which lets you create and manipulate a 'freestyle layer' by using the Effects panel. The Filter ▸ Blur ▸ Gaussian Blur command, along with the options presented below, will create the effect you see in the example below. Blur type: 2 px Radius: 3 px Sigma: 12 px Opacity: 50% Note that filters can be applied to a layer in one of the ways detailed above. For more on the effects of filters, see Filter Categories. Freeform Layers Freeform Layers are an easy way to apply filters and other transformations to an image. Freeform Layers let you design and build a desired 'freestyle' layer with simplified tools. Freeform Layers operate as either 'paint tools' or 'transform tools'. To use Freeform Layers, follow these steps: Open a new document (File ▸ New). Click the Freeform Layers icon above the Layers panel. Freeform Layers: Paint Tools The Freeform Layers: Paint Tools mode is used for precise editing. It is useful for adding and removing small parts of an image. The icon above the Layers panel represents Freeform Layers: Paint Tools mode. To use Freeform Layers: Paint Tools, follow these steps: Select the Freeform Layers option from the Layers panel. Freeform Layers paint tools are above all the active layers. Article content For the last two decades, Prius owners have been bragging about using the fuel-saving hybrid cars as a legitimate environmental cost savings, as much as those who think it's a great marketing gimmick. Based on those bragging rights, it has been suggested that this year's Honda Canada National Sales Man of the Year trophy go to the manufacturer of the country's top-selling car. We apologize, but this video has failed to load. tap here to see other videos from our team. Try refreshing your browser, or Canada's top-selling car is neither environmental nor cost-saving, but important to consumers Back to video Honda Canada launched its all-new Civic and CR-V compact and subcompact SUV vehicles in March, and the family sedan is doing well, with 4,999 sold in the first quarter. Honda Canada sold 22,162 of the hybrid and electric vehicles through March, a 34.4-per-cent increase over the previous year. Sales of the fuel-efficient Prius have also grown, increasing 19.8 per cent to 17,599 units year-to-date, Honda said. Of course, the Prius continues to use a small-capacity gas engine along with an electric motor, with buyers able to plug in the vehicle to charge the battery and produce electricity to run the hybrid.Q: ActiveRecord callback within update method Lets say I'm performing a @user.update_attributes(params[:user]) This works fine as I want to update attributes. but lets say i also wanted to call a stored proc once this is done as it is a quite common scenario i feel, how would I do this? What's New In?

BEEVILLE – Kim Baca is "never in trouble," as far as public speaking is concerned. The former WICOMICO (pronounced "nick-kah-MIKE-oh") High School (now Fort Bend Marshall High School) graduate is so comfortable in front of a crowd – whether it's a massive outdoor rally in front of 15,000 at the Rio Grande River or telling of a love story at the Main Street Uptown Theater, she has little apprehension. Baca also has no worries about what Judge Robert Daffner, the outgoing Metropolitan Transit Authority of Harris County (METRO) board member, plans for her. When the former news reporter for 19XX TV in Beeville fills the seat she's been working to have filled for the last two years, she will become the only woman on the nine-member board. And with four positions on the board opening – two after the March 7 elections and two after a successful election petition by Baca – the former radio personality has a great shot at an open seat and a spot on the board. Baca, 41, has started putting together a campaign and says she has support from allies on the board with whom she has worked well over the last two years, but she didn't get a formal endorsement from METRO. At the top of the list of Baca's potential allies is Anthony Klinger. While it is not known what possible roles the two worked together, the former Fort Bend mayor was most likely influenced by Baca when he voted to give METRO the ability to issue a $79 million bond to repair the system's infrastructure, long believed to be in need of improvement. "That made me very happy because it's not a political issue," Klinger told the Beeville Enterprise during a Feb. 13 interview.

"I'm not voting because of her gender. That's not the basis for my vote, but I was happy with what she did for the city and for METRO." Thanks to Baca's efforts, "We're gonna have something like money to lay (new) rail cars on the system," Klinger said. "That helped us." While Baca and Klinger worked together over the past two years on the METRO board, it
