the head of port operations, mustafa khalil, who was in charge of the logistic operations at the port, said he was not aware of ammonium nitrate inside hangar 12 before the explosion. he said that the port was just operating according to the orders it was given. [336] according to a new york times report, a french official said that the explosion was not as big as it was reported to be. [338] however, an explosives expert who was interviewed by the new york times said that ammonium nitrate is a highly combustible substance, and is typically used in the production of fertilizers. [339] he said that the detonation of ammonium nitrate could cause the release of ammonia gas, which would have increased the severity of the explosion. [340] the french experts said that the explosion would have resulted in a force of at least 4,600 tonnes, [341] while the french experts, who were commissioned by the state prosecutor to investigate the explosion, said that it was at least 11,000 tonnes. [342] the report released by the french prosecutor in april 2018, after the explosion, said that the force of the blast was 19,000 tonnes. [343] in the final report, the experts said that the explosion was more severe than previously reported, estimating that the explosion was at least 18,000 tonnes. [344] in a report on its website, the french prosecutor said that in the final report, the experts found that there were several anomalies. [346] according to the prosecutor, it was found that the explosion was not as big as it was initially reported to be. [347] in a press conference on August 6, 2020, then-general security director Abbas Ibrahim confirmed that the ammonium nitrate had been removed from Hangar 12 and explained that the warehouse at the port was filled with ammonium nitrate. [337] he said that the ammonium nitrate had been removed to be used in the construction of a new port building, which he said would open in early 2021. [338] Ibrahim said that when he became aware of the ammonium nitrate on the Rhosus and found out that it was still there, he communicated with general security via email and asked them to provide him with information regarding the ammonium nitrate, what it was and what was its volume. [339] he said that general security informed him that the ammonium nitrate was a hazardous material but that it was not included in the port general security report regarding the rhosus. [340] in a statement to human rights watch on july 29, 2020, major general abbas ibrahim said that when he received the report of the port officials regarding the ammonium nitrate in hangar 12 from general security, he ordered that the ammonium nitrate be removed from hangar 12. [341] he said that once general security did remove the ammonium nitrate from hangar 12, he had a meeting with naddaf and the port director. [342] hussein al-khabaz and the chairman of the executive council, prime minister hassan diab, urged the trade ministry to act immediately to take the necessary steps to reopen the port to sea traffic. [85] the trade ministry ordered all ports be closed to prevent any illegal goods from entering the country, but this was subsequently rescinded after the minister of public works, ali hassan khalil, said the port would reopen to ships at the end of february and all cargo would be unloaded by march 25, 2014. [86] at the end of february, however, the port again closed, citing the need to assess the situation. [87] 5ec8ef588b
