Q: Turn on web server with KVM? I'm trying to learn how to set up a virtualized server, and I am trying to find the way to turn on the server on my desktop. I have KVM running, but I don't know what to set the name of the virtual machine as. Is there a specific name that I need to set? It's not using DHCP.

A: In the KVM settings for your VM, you can set a name for it, and then the first time you login to it, it will present the console. If you want to start it and not have to wait for it to show up, you can start it from command-line.

KVM settings: Go to the settings for the VM you want to start. Click 'Endurance' if there isn't an option to 'Show console'. In the settings for the VM, find the line that says 'IOPath' and
