Turns text into commands with hotkeys in a second. This simple-to-use application lets you make your text perform functions simply by hitting the keyboard. If your touchscreens are not cooperating with you, or you are simply lazy to move your finger over a touchscreen, you can rely on the keyboard to perform most of your tasks and shortcuts, including opening, closing, minimizing, and maximizing applications. You can even launch programs with a single keystroke. KEYMACRO allows you to assign shortcut keys to actions on your windows and even open programs, on the fly, by just pressing them. KEYMACRO offers a minimum set of keyboard commands, that is compatible with Microsoft Windows OS and Linux. The list of commands is pre-defined and can be customized to suit your needs, by creating new short cuts, depending on the applications you use most often. In addition to that, you can define your own commands for any action you want, by pressing a combination of keys, for instance, to trigger the launch of a certain program or to send a file to another application. The commands include commands to open applications and folders, minimize/maximize windows, and perform system and program actions. You can even launch applications, save files, and perform other actions, by simply typing a command in a window.
