Based on the latest information, the global market has registered a significant growth. This growth is attributed to an increasing consumption of synthetic cannabis. Marketers are becoming interested in the market due to a rising interest in this class of cannabis. Apart from these, other factors such as an increasing number of cannabis producers has also led to the growth in the market. Product description The global market for synthetic cannabis products is expected to witness high growth by 2026, as the products are mainly used as substitutes for other illegal cannabis products. The market for synthetic cannabis products is highly competitive due to the rising legalization of cannabis products. Several factors such as the growing number of cannabis growers, growing demand for medical cannabis, growing number of cannabis producers, and increasing growth of the cannabis consumer market are expected to drive the market. Currently, the market for synthetic cannabis is dominated by U.S. and EU countries, owing to the growing awareness about the harms of the products. The presence of a large number of cannabis producers and a growing cannabis consumer market in Latin American and Asia Pacific countries has also created opportunities for the market. Market segmentation On the basis of product, the market for synthetic cannabis is segmented into cannabimimetic precursors, pharmaceutical drugs, dosing formulations, and other products. The cannabimimetic precursors segment dominated the global market in 2019, with a market share of more than 60%. On the basis of application, the market for synthetic cannabis is segmented into medical and recreational purposes. The medical segment is expected to witness a high growth rate during the forecast period. On the basis of the type of product, the market for synthetic cannabis is segmented into terpenoids, cannabinoids, and other products. The segmentation includes cannabinoids, which is expected to witness high growth due to the increasing demand for alternative ways of cannabis consumption, especially in Europe.
